LONDON, (AP)—The British government was unable Thursday to break the Hindu-Moslem deadlock over Indian independence, and informed sources said one of the first effects may be prolongation of Britain's stay in India.

The rival Indian leader, now in London, will not be called into round-table conference. The deadlock was reached Thursday after a special session of the cabinet, which followed a meeting between Viceroy Viscount Wavell and the cabinet mission to India. The Indian constitution, seemed doomed before it could begin.

If M. A. Jinnah of the Moslem league stays away from the Dec. 9 meetings, as seems virtually certain now, the chances of agreement over India's constitution are "very slender indeed," informed persons said.

The Hindu leader, Nehru, has indicated his intention to leave London Saturday or Sunday, Jinnah and the Moslem league secretary, Liaquat Ali Khan, are not expected to stay longer than a few days. Sardar Baldev Singh, the Sikh leader, is expected to accompany Nehru back to India.

The government sources expressed the hope that the Hindu-Moslem failure to compromise on the differences presaged new waves of fratricidal strife in India.

Alaska-Bound Truck Overturns in Ditch

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)—A heavy-duty truck carrying a convoy of 18 trucks, Alaska-bound with much-needed supplies, started up the Alaska highway from here Thursday. The truck overturned in a ditch.

The two were injured when one of the trucks left the road east of Dawson Creek, Wednesday night. The driver suffered a fractured collar bone, while the passenger suffered facial lacerations and abrasions requiring hospital treatment. The truck was not damaged greatly.

The convoy was delayed by the excellent condition. Picking up the rear of the convoy, the truck was delayed by high Prairie belt, sloughed and hauled by Lynch Chalmers, en route to B.C. points along the highway.

Fail Election Bidout French Premier

PARIS, (AP)—Georges Bidault failed Thursday to win election as premier of France.

Bidault in the national assembly was defeated by the Mouvement Republicain Populaire, fewer than the 310 votes necessary for an absolute majority.

The first round of the presidential election was held Thursday. Bidault, 48, was defeated by the Communist Maurice Thorez, 51.

The Popowichs were convicted Dec. 12 of the fatal beating of Noto, and robbing him of $10 last June 16. A death sentence by Noto was the main reason for his conviction.

No Strike Benefits Are Paid to Miners

WASHINGTON, (AP)—No strike benefits are paid to members by the United Mine Workers union in its current coal strike, union sources said Thursday. It was explained that the union's treasury of approximately $13,500,000 couldn't stand a continued drain by 400,000 miners.

General Strike In Oakland Ends

OAKLAND, Calif., (AP)—The general strike, which for nearly three days gripped 1,000,000 residents of East Bay communities in almost complete business paralysis, ended Thursday.

Back-to-work orders were issued Thursday by the American Federation of Labor unions, lifting a blockade which had halted all public transportation and deprived residents of most living essentials since 5:00 a.m. Thursday.

Orders for the resumption were issued by the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America and the A.F.L. state strategy committee.

A union statement confirmed the breaking picket lines and that city officials would be held up indirectly by the strike.

Haas said that the labor union's meeting the union conference was held Thursday.

Dea Beck, head of the Western Conference of Teamsters and Pacific Coast A.F.L. labor leader, Wednesday night, broke off the strike.

By ordering his teamsters to return to work, he ended the strike.

An agreement was reached at an 11th-hour meeting between 1,000,000 East Bay residents found all transportation and the city.

Coal Strike Continuing Despite New Injunction

WASHINGTON, (AP)—President Truman will address the American people on the coal strike crisis Sunday (at 7:30 p.m. Edmonton time).

Mr. Truman is expected to appeal to the striking soft coal miners over the head of John L. Lewis to go back to work.

Presidential secretary Charles G. Ross told reporters Mr. Truman will speak for about 20 minutes on the situation growing out of the coal strike, which has brought mounting unemployment and has hurt reconvertory industry.

What Mr. Truman will say will depend on the state of affairs at the time he goes on the air, he added.

Mr. Ross declined to speculate on the possibility of a settlement of the strike prior to the broadcast, which will be carried by all major networks.

It will be the president's first talk to the country since he announced the removal of meat controls in mid-October.

Mr. Lewis' contempt of court trial was concluded.

Meanwhile, Senator Joseph R. McCarthy, who has been in the coal strike, is expected to be called to the stand.

Now that the court has asked Lewis to return to work, it is expected that the coal strike will be ended.

Meanwhile John L. Lewis, co-leader of the United Mine Workers, has been ordered to return to work.

At the conference went forward at U.M.W. headquarters, the industry.

Supply of Christmas Toys Best Since Early in War

OTTAWA, (CP)—It is true that children's Christmas-morning faces are the most important item of the big day, this ought to be the merriest Christmas in years.

The latest array of toys since 1941 is ready to make the younger generation's eyes pop this Dec. 25, a prices board survey of the toy shops shows. And Junior, accustomed to makeshift wartime substitutes, may well be overwhelmed.

Such articles as skates, construction sets, bicycles and metal wagons not on the market last year will be in some quantity, the survey reports. There also will be electric trains.

Prices Are Higher
Other items in good supply are toy trucks, fire engines, cars, steam rollers, scooters, airplanes, tricycles and kiddy cars. For little girls there will be dolls, cradles, electric foot dubs and laundry sets, though some types of dolls will be in short supply because of textile shortage.

Cutting prices on all toys have been removed, with the prospect of somewhat higher prices than in 1941.

The Christmas tree will be better than usual since indications are there will be "terrible supplies of these items." More tree decorations will be available than at any time during the war, except lights, since the dominion is not receiving her usual large supply from Japan.

Paper, Cards Ample
Other miscellaneous items covered in the board's survey follows:

Gift wrapping paper—Supplies are much better. There should be ample quantities of all varieties, both fancy and plain.

Christmas cards—A liberal supply of cards from five and a dollar to a dollar.

Stationery—While all paper products are in short supply, prospects are good for an adequate supply of social stationery.

Jewelry—Good supplies.

China-ware—As there is very little china manufactured in Canada, the

New Radar Device Will Aid Airmen

OTTAWA, (CP)—A radar device to enable an airplane pilot to tell his distance from a ground station by a glance at a dial has been developed by the National Research Council. It was announced Wednesday.

As simple to read as an automobile dashboard instrument, the installation gives a pilot his position "to a high degree of accuracy even when he is unable to see the ground," the council said.

Preliminary models have been tested extensively, and an experimental installation on a Canadian airline is under way.

Supply will not be exceptionally good. Canada gets most of her china from England, and white shipments have been better, these are still being used to fill back orders.

Glassware—Supplies better than last Christmas.

Bath salts and cologne. Plentiful supplies.

Jap Staff Chief
Given 10 Years

SINGAPORE, (Reuters)—Lt. Gen. Eijima Ishida, former Japanese army chief of staff, Tuesday was sentenced to 10 years in prison by the Singapore war crimes tribunal.

Ishida in 1943 was in charge of building the Burma-Siam railway, which cost the lives of 15,000 British and Allied prisoners of war and 100,000 Indian, Chinese, Indonesian, Burmese and Siamese laborers.

Monday Ishida was found guilty of being Allied prisoners of war on the construction of the railway.

Seniors of death by hanging were passed on two of his subordinates, Col. Shoguchi Nakamura and Lt. Col. Shoguchi Imai, although the court recommended mercy for Nakamura.

Gets Commutation Of Death Sentence

WINNIPEG, (CP)—The death sentence of Abraham Goodman, 55, convicted at the recent assizes of the murder of 50-year-old Mrs. Rachel Herman, has been commuted to life imprisonment. Goodman was to have been hanged Dec. 27.

A Canadian was found guilty of killing Mrs. Herman with an axe when he broke into her bedroom on May 20. The defence did not dispute the fact that Goodman killed Mrs. Herman but pleaded that their elicit was insane.

Ottawa May Get Coast Rail Line

By John Bird
OTTAWA—Possible transfer of the provincially-owned Pacific Great Eastern railway to the dominion government has been discussed between the British Columbia delegation, in Ottawa for tax agreement talks, and the dominion government—but any P.G.E. deal will not form a direct part of the agreement, it was reliably learned.

Such a transfer agreement could take the form of a "corollary agreement" not forming part of the last deal—after the fashion of the "corollary" relief debt agreement with Saskatchewan.

The feasibility P.G.E. may receive special consideration in the form of road building subsidies is also being mooted, British Columbia, because of its mountainous territory, faces exceptionally high road construction and maintenance costs.

The P.G.E. has lately come in for much attention, notably in the United States, in connection with possible Canadian-American defence lines to Alaska. Its strategic value has been undoubtedly drawn to the attention of the Canadian-American joint board, but there has been no indication here of defence board intervention to secure the railway.

Premier Hart is not primarily interested in a defence line to Alaska, but is concerned with the extension of the P.G.E. from Quebec, the present railroad, to Dawson Creek in the Peace River block of B.C.

A Parks Department

The city commissioners will recommend to the city council that a parks, playgrounds and recreation department be established, and Edmonton separate from the engineer's department which hitherto has had charge of these activities.

This is an intelligent move that is long overdue because parks and playgrounds are getting the attention they deserve so long as they are merely a sideline of a busy department with many other important interests. With the best will in the world, the engineer's department could never adequately undertake the development of a recreational system in Edmonton for the simple reason that this department is already overloaded with vital projects.

The development of parks and playgrounds and their administration is a full time job if it is to be done properly. And it must be done properly. If Edmonton's parks and playgrounds are to be given the opportunity to become well-balanced lives.

While the creation of a new department is a step in the right direction, it does not represent the perfect system for handling recreational matters. What will be ultimately needed is a publicly-elected parks board with a certain minimum of taxation authority to enable it to establish the establishment of a new department moves towards this end.

It Is Dangerous Stuff

There is little need to put in words the danger of the tragedy that has happened. The same results have followed, many times and in many places, from the same cause.

Gasoline is explosive. That is why it drives a motor car. It would be useless for this and other mechanical purposes if it were not explosive. That it has this terrible energy is the only reason why streets and highways are studied with filling stations. They are there to sell the liquid which, more than any other of comparable cost, can drive the pistons of internal combustion engines.

There is no other use, save in laboratories, in which gasoline should be put. The quality which gives it value as a source of power is also the cause of its danger. It is highly dangerous when put to any other purpose.

Gasoline will clean clothes, of course, and get grease and dirt off metal surfaces. But the danger involved in these uses is not so great as such ends. There are other fluids, non-combustible, which will do the same work. It is no longer necessary to run the risk of employing liquid gasoline in the home.

There is no likelihood that any person in Hanna district will repeat the mistake which caused this tragedy. But that is not enough. All over Alberta, where the highways are crowded, there should be a quickened sense of the fact that gasoline is dangerous. It is just as dangerous in one locality as another, and will produce exactly the same results.

How to Get More Houses

The National Home Builders' Association held a meeting in Winnipeg. One outcome was an agreement that 12 new more houses could be built in Canada than the 60,000 set last spring by Hon. C. D. Howe as the national objective for 1946—which objective will not be reached by 2,000 or more.

But there was a condition attached; no bottlenecks along the supply lines due to labor disputes. Moreover, President Lount said to build 90,000 houses would not take more than half the materials this country could produce. The other half could go into more houses or be shipped abroad to pay for exports and build up our foreign trade.

This hardly rates as new information, but it comes from men who know what they are talking about, who have to know or they could not stay in business. Boiled down, it means that Canadians can put up enough houses to shelter returned men's families and civilian families in record-making time. It is up to ourselves to get ourselves seriously to the job of producing the lumber and cement and fixtures and other things which go into the construction of a modern home.

Stated conversely, this becomes an accusation that the returned men and others have been "let down" this year by all sundry officials and non-officials, who have failed to create the bottlenecks, whether by direct action or by neglect. Two thousand or more houses standing unfinished in Edmonton is the local result.

The house-builders also knew what they were talking about when they said it costs from $8,000 to $7,000 to put up houses with modern conveniences and suitable for average family use.

But that is more money than the average Canadian can afford to pay for a house. However far the taxpayer is from the street, the further the remote future, four out of five Canadians do not get income big enough to warrant them such an obligation. Building costs are now "out of the line" as the reports of officials of the reconstruction department who recently completed a survey of the national situation.

The Association did not say so, but it is obvious that if houses are to be put within reach of the people who need them, these costs will have to be cut down drastically. It is not so quick and easy to do that is to "absorb" part of the costs as a national obligation, by paying building bonuses from the Dominion treasury.

The Outside Referee

The Judicial Committee of the Privy Council has upheld the right of the Dominion Government to deport undesirable Japanese, including naturalized British subjects of that race.

In so doing the committee expressed no opinion, as a matter of course, as to the advisability of the deportation orders. These were exclusively a matter for the Japanese government and those to whom it had delegated its powers.

On the point of deporting Japanese who had citizenship in Canada, the committee said that the War Measures Act dealt with emergency in "sweeping terms" and used the word "deportation" in a general sense, therefore applicable to all persons, irrespective of nationality. So far as legalities go, that ends the matter.

The realities are that deportations have been directed to Japanese who were adjudged disloyal to Canada and to others who expressed a wish to return to Japan. About 800 of the 24,000 in the Dominion were on the black-list as disloyal. Some 4,000 have been shipped to Japan, presumably including the 500 quislings. Two or three hundred more are awaiting transportation ships sailing to Japan being few and far between.

There are 6,000 Japs still in British Columbia, but not in the coastal region. The rest have scattered across Canada, and have been found useful in the best fields in Alberta to the onset of ex-Premier Hepburn in southern Ontario. There has been no departmental concern of them for any wholesale deportation, perhaps because the lawfulness of the policy was under consideration in the courts.

Incidentally, this reference shows again the advantage of having an outside judicial body to which constitutional questions can be sent for final decision. The award of the Supreme Court of Canada was not acceptable to all parties concerned in the dispute. Specifically it was not acceptable to the Co-operative Committee headed by the Japanese group in Toronto.

It was this committee who referred the case to London. Precedent suggests with certainty that the decision handed down there will be taken as correctly defining the law on the question.

Dismissing the charge against a man brought into his court, an Ottawa magistrate found the accused was not guilty of his act but "momentarily insane due to drinking." Medical evidence showed the accused was suffering from an injury which causes him to "react pathologically" to the effects of alcohol and "mental deterioration and impairment of judgment and general standards of behavior." To the man the medico-legal description of the symptoms is not really distinguishable from an old-fashioned beer.

proposed action by the Security Council—otherwise there would be no action.

There is a difference of opinion in a family partnership when one of the partners refuses to go along with the proposed action. In the family nothing can be done—in the Security Council anyone, two, three or four of the members can go ahead and do by themselves anything that is physically possible. The only thing that can be "vetoed" is collective action by the Security Council as a whole.

There have been less than a dozen cases where the Security Council has been unable to reach the necessary unanimity among the Big Five. They are:

The Road Ahead

BY HARPER PROWSE, M.L.A.
There are many reasons why houses are built, and why they are built, but until we decide which reason or reasons, is the most important to us, to it, it will be impossible for us to lay down a policy which will chart our course as we plan for the future.

If you ask somebody engaged in the construction business or in one of the construction trades, he will explain that it is important because it supplies jobs. The contractor wants to build houses because it is profitable to do so.

The carpenter, the bricklayer, the plasterer, the plumber, the electrician, the decorator, will explain that it is necessary that we build as many houses as possible because primarily it insures steady and remunerative employment in these trades.

If you ask the inventor, or the landlord, why he wants to build homes to sell or rent he will explain that he wants to put his money to work. He is opposed to government intervention in the housing field, as he is opposed to fixed rents or other subsidies housing, because it limits or prevents him obtaining a great return on his investment as he would like. Government competition, such as is offered by Wartime Housing, is to him unfair competition financed by taxes which he pays out of his own pockets.

THE AVERAGE municipal authority will tell you that new building is desirable because it offers new fields of taxation, new sources of revenue, new permits extensions and improvements of utilities and facilities, possibly even the lowering of taxes. There are many who are opposed to government intervention in the housing business because it normally government-sponsored schemes demand either tax exemptions or special concessions.

The man in the middle and upper income group who wants to build his own home, or who wants to make a dream come true. Often he has saved and he has a special status in his own mind. He has a dream of the kind of home he and his wife have dreamed of. This home to him will not only provide comfort but will represent security and give him a feeling of prestige and accomplishment.

He has been blamed for insisting on his democratic right to enjoy the privileges to which he feels his industry has entitled him. He does not need government assistance himself, and he knows he will have to pay increased taxes if it is given to others he is naturally reluctant to see it given if it is expected.

THE MAJORITY of lower income brackets wants to see homes built because they want a decent place in which to live and bring up his family. Today he is living in unsuitable, overcrowded accommodation which is only too often unhealthy, unsanitary and inadequate and for which he pays what, out of his own salary, is an excessive amount of rent.

The health authority will explain that we must build new homes because the majority of our tuberculosis cases come from overcrowded slum areas. He will point out that overcrowding in inadequate and unsanitary quarters breeds disease of every kind, and that this, which is reflected in increased taxes for health measures, hospitals and sanatoriums.

The social worker will talk about divorce rates, juvenile delinquency, and the magnitude of their social service demands. (Copyright 1946 by the Bell Syndicate and The Edmonton Bulletin.)

IN ONE CASE the Soviet seemed to me to use its preventive measures foolishly. That was as listed above, on June 26 when Mr. Gromyko's lone vote defeated an Australian motion to keep the Franco matter out of the Council's agenda "without prejudice to the rights of the General Assembly." In actual fact however, this was not a veto of any proposed action but rather a rebuke to proposed inaction by the Council.

IT IS CLEAR from the record itself that on one matter, and one matter only, has the veto been used to prevent action that should have been taken. That was the August 29, 1948, when the Soviet vetoed admission applications of three countries—whereas the United States and Britain vetoed the applications of Ireland and Portugal. The United States and Britain seem to have been clearly wrong in vetoing the applications of Albania and Mongolia. In my opinion, they are clearly as much entitled to membership as the majority of the nations.

Trans-Jordan seems in a different category. It was part of the original territory of Palestine given to Britain under mandate from the League of Nations.

Quiet Confidence Expressed In the Future of Dominion by Bank of Montreal President

B of M President Sees Individual and National Independence and Security Enhanced by Savings —129th Annual Meeting

Montreal, Dec. 3.—A tone of confidence concerning the future of Canada, tinged with a warning against over-expansion of business and concern at the present level of taxation, featured the presidential address of George W. Spinney, C.M.G., at the 129th annual meeting of the Bank of Montreal yesterday.

Cost of Banking Service Constant as Other Prices Mount—Says B of M Head

Montreal, Dec. 3.—Banking is one of the few essential services for which the cost to the consumer has not increased in recent years. President George W. Spinney said yesterday in his address to the 129th Annual Meeting of the Bank of Montreal.

"In fact, the trend has been in the opposite direction," Mr. Spinney said, "that although banking costs to the consumer have gone generally downward, the operating costs of the bank have been rising steadily. Deposits have nearly doubled since 1929, so that the cost of servicing all the varied counter transactions of banking, as well as interest payments on deposits, in the aggregate risen substantially."

"I only want to add in this connection," he continued, "that we have constantly endeavored to keep our costs down. We have been able to do this by employing more loyalty and faithful application to duty have been increasing, and whose interest and position cannot be allowed to suffer by comparison with other occupations."

"I am sure that shareholders will agree," he continued, "that the personal welfare of our employees is the greatest importance in the safe and efficient conduct of the bank's affairs."

Mr. Spinney said he believed that certain social security measures have their place in our way of life, but that they are not the answer to individual and good for the nation as a whole. He said that the desire to provide for the future of oneself and his family is one of the strongest motives of the individual, and that the capacity for enterprise and the capacity for effort will be the determining factors in the future, or, more accurately, in the future.

"It is too soon to say," he continued, "that the personal welfare of our employees is the greatest importance in the safe and efficient conduct of the bank's affairs."

Fusion of Zones in Germany To Tighten British Rations

By Frank Swenson

LONDON.—British authorities yesterday faced the unpleasant prospect of pulling on already-tight belts—this time to cover the gap between the two Germanys.

This is the price authorities would be expected to pay for economic fusion between the British and American zones of which were announced in London and Washington.

Low limited fruit, canned meat, dried eggs, and other little "extras" which make life more comfortable will appear in the nation's stores next year, when American goods will be starting to run dry.

But Britain won't have room to spare to meet her German obligations and buy things she herself needs.

To become worse.

But 1947 is not expected to be a "critical" year so far as exchanges are concerned. The following year is expected to produce even more austerity, because it is anticipated that the British will have to be exhausted or so that that same buying power will be reduced to practically nothing.

To conserve funds for those years, treasury experts estimate Britain will have to revise radically her buying program in the next year, and next year, when American goods will be starting to run dry.

This could only be done by cutting down American food imports, such as wheat, tobacco, and a host of manufactured goods.

Harder on Britain.

Though the fusion agreement will be hailed as a triumph and, as it represents a hard bargain for an austerity-stricken nation, since the United States, with potentially unlimited financial resources, is not in Germany as calling in on the British for aid.

Biggest source of vital foodstuffs will be the cost of the agreement to the German economy again. Britain's willingness to enter into an agreement to the overriding importance she attaches to the recovery of Germany as an economic entity, she will, will bear the brunt of the first time in history, to make an agreement which in effect means that victors are required to pay reparations to the vanquished in order to get the defeated nation on its feet.

Also present was another European power in middle Europe still waiting to be reformed.

LONDON. (Reuters)—Keynote of the Anglo-American economic conference is the object of reviving the German economy as a form of anti-inflationary aid to Europe, the rest of the world and Germany itself.

Germany is to be made western Germany's leading partner in a self-sustaining reconstruction of a self-sustaining economy for Europe, which is the object of the conference.

LONDON. (CP). The Royal Navy is having trouble getting back to peacetime normal. The problem of manning ships has become acute.

At least 2,000 men are required to man a ship like the 3,500-ton liner, the C. P. Steamship, which sailed last Tuesday for Liverpool.

She carried 16 passengers, and will pick up 20 more at Halifax.

Warships Tied Up By Lack of Men

LONDON. (CP). The Royal Navy is having trouble getting back to peacetime normal. The problem of manning ships has become acute.

At least 2,000 men are required to man a ship like the 3,500-ton liner, the C. P. Steamship, which sailed last Tuesday for Liverpool.

She carried 16 passengers, and will pick up 20 more at Halifax.

Biggest source of vital foodstuffs will be the cost of the agreement to the German economy again.

Harder on Britain. Though the fusion agreement will be hailed as a triumph and, as it represents a hard bargain for an austerity-stricken nation, since the United States, with potentially unlimited financial resources, is not in Germany as calling in on the British for aid.

Biggest source of vital foodstuffs will be the cost of the agreement to the German economy again. Britain's willingness to enter into an agreement to the overriding importance she attaches to the recovery of Germany as an economic entity, she will, will bear the brunt of the first time in history, to make an agreement which in effect means that victors are required to pay reparations to the vanquished in order to get the defeated nation on its feet.

Also present was another European power in middle Europe still waiting to be reformed.

Want Specific Knowledge Of Stand on Freight Rates

Specific knowledge of the financial facts upon which the Railways Association intends to base its argument for an increase of 30 per cent in freight rates was an essential requirement of the provinces, Hon. W. A. Fallick, minister of public works, said Thursday. A knowledge of the Railways Association's proposed argument was necessary if the provinces were to make a freight rate increase intended to "put up any kind of a fight," the minister said.

Cause of Death Questioned

May Exhume Body Of Drowning Victim

Possibility of exhuming the body of Clarence George Snider, of Rabbit Hill, allegedly drowned last Aug. 11 at Lac Ste. Anne, was seen in an inquest which opened Wednesday afternoon in city police court. Dr. E. A. Braithwaite, chief provincial coroner, adjourned the hearing stating that he will talk the case over with the attorney-general's department.

THE INQUEST was ordered at the request of Mr. Snider's family with L. Y. Cairns, M.P., acting on their behalf. Snider was reported to have drowned when he fell out of a boat while trying to change places with Walter Johnston, 2012 106 street. Johnston, who was with children, 7-year-old Gary Menard, and June Newman, 15, were passengers in the boat at the time and all three were saved.

Snider was reported to have started swimming then suddenly went down. At the time it was stated that he had been suffering from a bad heart and may have given out while he was struggling in the water.

AT WEDNESDAY'S hearing, which was for the purpose of trying to determine the cause of death, the coroner stated that there was not sufficient evidence to enable him to determine any other cause of death than that of drowning. Mr. Cairns then asked that the body be exhumed. Mr. Snider said he would agree to anything to stop "rumors" that she said were circulating. Dr. Braithwaite said "I have been known for more than 50 years and I've never heard of anything like this before. However, I will call on the attorney-general's department to allow the inquest for one week."

IT WAS LEARNED that one of the reasons for the exhumation request was to dispel, or confirm by way of talking to the coroner, Mr. Cairns stated that there was a considerable number of rumors that the body had been found.

One new case was reported today, with the body standing at about 40 ft.

A report from British Columbia said that in that province there had been a considerable number of cases of diphtheria this year.

Dies Suddenly
William Thomas Tracy, a resident of the Kitchissippi district, died suddenly between 9 a.m. and 2 p.m. Wednesday at his home according to the RCMP. No inquest will be held as it is stated that he died from heart failure. A sister of the deceased man, residing in Eastern Canada, has been notified.

Edmonton Man Hailed As No. 1 Hockey Fan

By JACK DELONG

Most sport stories are about athletes. This one's different. It's about a fan. Not an ordinary fan. In fact we think he is deserving of the title of Mr. Hockey Fan. For we know of no one with a better right to be crowned king of fans and chief of all the rooters than Rodrick S. "Red" Morrison, who has been very proud to call Edmonton his home since the pleasant summer of 1910.

With SEVEN provinces lined up behind the request for information letters were expected. It is not thought that Quebec or Ontario will lend their weight.

The provinces would be expected to be prepared to exchange their own arguments with the railways. Mr. Fallick thought and asked that if the railways were agreeable to the request to co-operate.

Mr. Fallick said he believed the other provinces would do likewise.

Rev. E. H. Birdsall Speaks

Junior Chamber Marks Success of Campaign

"Religion and democracy grew in the same area in the history of the last 2,000 years and they share common basic beliefs. Because of that, they must stand or fall together." The Rev. E. H. Birdsall, minister of Central United Church, said at a dinner meeting of the Junior Chamber of Commerce in the Macdonald hotel Wednesday night.

MR. BIRDSALL'S subject was "Religion and Democracy." The dinner was given to publicize that all chamber members and their supporters who made up the Junior Chamber of Commerce to support (tentative) vote campaign to succeed.

Officials of the city administration, including aldermen, city and school board officials and others were present. J. M. McKenna, president of the Junior Chamber, presided at the dinner and later turned the meeting over to the Alex C. McGregor civic affairs committee.

Both religion and democracy have a common belief in the value of the individual. That all men have an equal value in this life, Mr. Birdsall said.

DIVORCE GRANTED
A decree nisi of divorce was granted in supreme court Wednesday afternoon by Mr. Justice Hogg. The divorce was granted to Mrs. E. H. Birdsall, wife of the late E. H. Birdsall, who died in 1944.

Navy League to Get Vessel

Well-Known Ship Model Is Taken From City

Well-known attraction in the Canadian Pacific station, long for the past few years, the six foot model of the CP vessel, the Empress of Asia, left Edmonton Wednesday afternoon with a few citizens present to wish her bon voyage.

The model will be taken, along with similar models of ships sunk or sold during the war years, to eastern Canada, where they will be turned over to the Navy League of Canada.

H. E. Tester, Winnipeg, official of the display division, department of public relations of the CP arrived in Edmonton Wednesday to supervise the removal of the model vessel from the station.

The Empress of Asia, after which the model was fashioned to scale, was built in 1914, she carried troops during the First World War, and during the peace years, carried passengers between Vancouver and the Orient as one of the "White Empresses" of the Pacific. During the past war, she was again pressed into service, and was sunk by the Japs at Singapore.

The model was built at the same time as the original ship and was brought to Edmonton about 19 years ago and placed on display in the CP station. Since that time it has been a curiosity for many travelers to and from this city, who have admired the intricate workmanship and sleek lines of the vessel.

It will be used by the Navy League of Canada, in the training of sea cadets.

Maori Princess Stands Out As Leader of Her Race

By J. C. GRAHAM

AUCKLAND, N.Z., Dec. 5 (CP) —Acknowledged by authorities on the Maori race to be the outstanding Maori woman of recent times and one of the most influential living leaders of the race of either sex, Princess Te Puea Herangi, received good wishes from all parts of New Zealand and from abroad on her 50th birthday recently.

Princess Te Puea is one of those rare personalities who, although self-effacing and retiring in manner, is automatically respected and admired by all who meet her. She is the granddaughter of the Maori King, Te Whatahira and aunt of Koro Koro, the present "king" leading chief of a large group of tribes in the Vaka district of the North Island.

Perhaps the measure of her greatness is that, although she herself never uses the title Princess, it is universally bestowed on her by New Zealand and by many prominent overseas visitors.

FEELING THAT the Maori race was on the down-grade, losing its old pride and skills and in danger of becoming merely a lower element in the white population she set to work to restore the race. She started land settlement schemes, calling on the ancient tribal practices of mobilizing whole communities for the task of breaking in land. Men did the heavy clearing and women and children carried out lighter tasks.

At Newmarket she established a model village as a central headquarters for the people of the Vaka. Here she maintained a nucleus of Maori carvers skilled in the ancient arts of decoration. The meeting house has always been the centre of Maori communal life and she had built a magnificent example worthy to rank with the greatest Maori buildings of the past.

She also built a fine "Kino" house for the Maori King and the whole area now has become a home for her people where they are proud to welcome distinguished visitors.

To mark New Zealand centennial celebrations, Princess Te Puea's carvers built a fleet of war canoes, finely decorated and among the largest ever constructed. When fully manned and equipped, they would be able to carry 1000 men and the water to the Maori war canoes and canoe songs, they were one of said to be preparing fortifications against possibility of attack. Pictured are officers and cadets receiving military instruction.

He is just as generous in his appraisal of hockey players. "The Flyers are a good team. Living boys, modest and gentlemanly. They are a credit to the City of Edmonton."

HE KNOWS MOST of the players personally but he never hands out any "free advice."

Young Bob Hollinger, dashing Flyers defenseman, is a warm favorite of Mr. Fan. He won a second Joe Simpson or Eddie Shore in the quarter-finals.

Doug Lane and Bobby Carey were favorites on last year's team. Back in the golden days of the Western Canada Professional Hockey League he had many favorites. Duke Keats is his pick of the hockey giants of these days. He also admired greatly Arnie Allan, the smooth, graceful right winger of the Edmonton Eskimos.

TRIBUTE WAS PAID to E. Ted) Arledge, chairman of the city affairs and government committee which committee sponsored the campaign and carried it through to a successful conclusion. Ted himself, having lost an election but had to go a beard ever since election day in early November, was presented with the championship cup, and a small replica which he may keep.

LLOYD COOPER gave several part selections.

Paul Gieseler introduced the speaker, and Henry Bernstein thanked him.

IN LEADING ROLE: Farnham Howarth will portray the title role in the Edmonton Community Theatre production of "The Man Who Came to Dinner" at the former American Red Cross building Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

Deadlines Are Set by Post Office

"Mail Early" Once Again Urged for Christmas Time

"Mail Early" is again the theme for Christmas mailings according to word from the Edmonton Post Office Thursday. Deadlines for local and distant mail were given.

Local mail must be posted before Dec. 18 to insure delivery before Christmas. Local mail posted later than this date will not be guaranteed delivery before Christmas.

Other deadlines are as follows: to the United States respectively parcels, before Dec. 9; to Maritime provinces, before Dec. 14; to Ontario, Quebec and Manitoba before Dec. 15; to British Columbia before Dec. 16 and to points in Alberta and Saskatchewan, before Dec. 17.

The announcement continued: "The post office is facing a tremendous flood of Christmas mail, trained staffs are still depleted and hundreds of new employees have been taken on, temporarily to cope with the rush."

"You can help maintain efficiency by mailing early."

Chamber Meeting Given Report

Highlight of the Wednesday noon council meeting of the chamber of Commerce was a report from Francis G. Winsper, Mr. Winsper has just returned from a meeting in Eastern Canada, where members of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce discussed the proposed 30 percent increase in freight rates.

Mr. Winsper reported that the general feeling of eastern boards of trade was one of approval of the increase.

House Welcomes

Col. Walter Elliot

LONDON, (CP) — Conservative members of the Commons Wednesday left themselves go with a long, delighted shout of welcome as Col. Walter Elliot, a veteran of public service, took the oath as a member. Col. Elliot, a former health minister, last week won the December universities by-election contested by the retirement of Sir John Boyd-Carter, Independent, who heads the United Nations Food and Agricultural Organization.

Party leader Winston Churchill marched on Col. Elliot's right hand with delight and Chief Whip James Stuart marched on his left as the sponsors of the new member again walked the length of the House he first entered in 1918 and took the oath of office from the clerk of the House.

Tuesday the Conservatives welcomed with cheerful cheers a young woman, Patricia Grant, who had replaced another Conservative in the recent Aberdeen South by-election. However, Col. Elliot refused to be dependent and he is a front bench member does not need to learn his lessons on the back bench.

A Janky Rock, Col. Elliot graduated as a doctor and won the Military Cross in the First Great War. He was parliamentary under-secretary of health for Scotland in 1922 and took the oath of office from the clerk of the House.

Cripps Gaining in Popularity In Spite of Austerity Role

LONDON, (CP) — In the latter part of the month of trade, the prospect of high thinking and lean living, the boots of cartoonists and music hall comedians who quip at the "Cripps" planning, supposed to be behind the controls which still rule Britain.

He gives the impression of a man who doesn't expect to be liked but will do his duty. He recently looked on his heels for a moment, surprised, when he received a solid and hearty minute of applause after addressing the conservative-dominated Federation of British Industries conference on export affairs.

For a second, he looked as if he would melt away and enjoy it. But he never has time to waste on self-indulgence, so he hastened to the chairman, shook his hand and raced from the hall.

Mr. Stafford is supposed to oppress British business with his regulations and controls, his insistence on goods for export, and his desire for a socially achievement. But after a year of Labor government in which his colorful predictions of other years were remembered, many businessmen feel that although these rules are hard enough with his dead-end it must be harder with a confirmed optimist like Mr. Stafford.

As for the ordinary man, he has noted at Mr. Stafford's maintenance for so long he probably has come to

Staley in Denial Of English Crimes

CALGARY, (CP) — Donald Staley, 29, who will be hanged in Leithbridge jail next week for a murder, has denied all knowledge of three crimes in England of which Scotland Yard thought he might be guilty.

Staley was found guilty of the murder of Bonnie Gair at St. George's Island on July 24. He was put from the death sentence was diminished by the appellate division of the supreme court of Alberta last week.

Acting for the metropolitan police in England, Det. Ken McIvor, who played a major part in the conviction of Staley on the murder count, interviewed the prisoner at Leithbridge jail. Staley was informed of the crimes, which happened close to army camp where he was stationed in England, but denied all knowledge of the offences.

The confused murder was specifically questioned concerning an attack on a 16-year-old girl at

Ghosts' Disturb Family in Britain

LANGFLET, (CP) — One night last April 18-year-old Joan Buckland awoke, to find a tall, misty figure standing by her bed. She thought it strange but, being a reserved girl, she didn't mention it to her family.

She saw the family soon and the idea there was something unusual about the 300-year-old house into which they had just moved, stirring knockings were heard. It is a strange coincidence that the same night, three weeks ago, Joan's brother Jackie, fell sick in the night. Their mother, Florence, got up to attend him. A hand gripped her wrist—and, she said with a worried frown between her eyes—there was no body attached to the hand.

"Two days later," Mrs. Buckland said, "I woke and there was this misty figure standing by the fireplace, I put my head under the bed."

Demand Expulsion Of U. S. Newsmen

Buenos Aires, (AP) — A Buenos Aires newspaper with close ties to Interior Minister Angel Borlenghi, Thursday demanded expulsion of Frank K. Rowland, New York Times correspondent for whom it described as a "vicious attack" on President Juan Peron.

The editorial referred to a Klockhous article appearing in the New York Times Sunday magazine, an abstract of which was published in Buenos Aires, analyzing the Peron government.

It later said Klockhous should be deported for his own physical safety under the seldom-used residence law which is aimed against "alienation" in a "vicious attack" on President Juan Peron.

(In New York, the Times said it "has no plans to withdraw" Klockhous.)

Anti-British Rise Seen in Canada

CARDIFF, Wales, (CP) — Britain's present political policy at home is "drawing America and Canada closer to each other," Sir Robert Gordon said in an address dispatched to his Cardiff Western M.P.

Sir Robert, managing director of the newspaper, who is visiting Canada, said British political policy is alienating Canadian and American sympathy for Britain.

He said he found it difficult to make Canadians and Americans realize Britain had been "hit for six" in the war and that it would take time to get back to anything like normal.

Sir Robert continued: "Less than half the people of Canada are of British origin and the emigrants from central Europe during the last two generations are very anti-British. We must face up to facts."

"A strong body of anti-British sentiment exists in Canada if I am to believe my friends... We have even asked if we would approve the transfer of Commonwealth headquarters to Canada. Why not, if circumstances could justify the move?"

Granny, Bobbysoxer Seek Early Marriage

Since keeping the family a going concern is mainly the most important feminine occupation, when a girl reaches the age of 16, she is often times as prevalent now as it was in 1900 and that statistician prophecy that in 20 years half of the marriages will end in a smash up, and that in 20 years the time of the bachelors will be over, is not an unknown species of wild animal, it makes us wonder if women's progress hasn't been backward instead of forward.

OF COURSE, in looking back upon the good old times, which probably never were as rosy as we paint them in our nostalgic portraits for an easier life than we are up against, we may attribute virtue to Grandma that she never had and picture her as living the life of Mr. Riley, which was far enough from doing.

Anyway, it is interesting to contrast Grandma and granddaughter, and see how they solved the problems that Nature hands to every woman. To begin with, both of them made early marriages, but whereas Grandma sold her bargain and made the heart of a boy bobbysoxer granddaughters are selling by the thousands to the divorce courts if they discover that they have lost their taste for John, or that Tommy has a keener line of attractions.

Perhaps Grandma found out after she got Grandpa home and took a good look at him, that he wasn't the romantic hero of her girlhood dreams, after all. On the contrary, he may have proved a pretty dull and stuffy and boring as steady company and not so easy to get along with, but it never occurred to her to take him to the divorce court and swap him off for something nearer to her heart's desire. She stood him for 20 or 30 or more years, and it was an endurance test that few of her granddaughters have the stamina to endure.

WHEN GRANDMA got married, she settled down to the job of being a wife and mother and housewife. Being human and young, she must have craved pleasure and excitement, and wanted to run around and have good times. But there was no young married set in her days who frequented bars and taverns, and spent their evenings making whoopee, while baby-sitters sat up with their children.

Grandma seldom had the college education, but she knew more about life, and what goes on in the human heart, and was able to manage people without their knowing it. Her granddaughters who have a Kappa Gamma key, Higher mathematics, chemistry, diplomacy, psychiatry were all just words to her, but she could make one dollar do the work of five and had Grandma calling out of her hand, and as for her cooking her descendants still drool at the mouth when they think of it.

Grandma wasn't advanced in her ideas. She thought that children were a blessing instead of a burden, and that it was a mother's place to stay at home and take care of them and bring them up in the way they should go, instead of turning them over to hired help, or letting them run wild on the streets. She felt, poor soul, that she was getting all the excitement she needed out of her family instead of cringing at a shop or having a car.

Was Grandma happy? Did she feel she had a dull life? Did she think that making a happy home and rearing a fine, family gave her as much of a thrill as her granddaughters get out of being in the movies? Was Grandma well-off with one husband as granddaughters have been with 5, or 4, or 3?

We will never know.

In the middle of the 19th century, many books had been printed in Chinese, but in all other languages, up to get.

Elizabeth Woodward Says...

Dear Miss Woodward: "I'm going to have a party on my sixteenth birthday, and so far I've invited about fifty of my classmates. Most-wants to invite a certain girl, but I know she wouldn't have a good time. She doesn't know any of my crowd and she doesn't know how to dance. What shall I do... I have her knowing she'll probably have a dull time... or just not invite her?"

Dear Miss Woodward: "I'll be eighteen soon and I want to have a party. I have lots of girl friends, but I don't know any boys. I don't want to have a party for a girl with a gang, and my girl friends don't know each other. I want to know if I should have the girls."

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

From the moment we offer the baby a spoonful of solid food we are establishing attitudes toward eating. It is important, then, that the mother's own attitude be right and that the first spoonfuls of the baby's food be pleasant ones to baby.

NEW TEXTURES and strange tastes are often looked upon with suspicion by the baby. A spoonful of something disagreeable may set the baby's dislike toward all spoons from then on.

Others can't choose your hobby for you but you will find fields of keen interest if you search for them. Actress Nina Foch gets much pleasure from her painting.

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Yesterday I called my attention to the happiness value of hobbies. The hobby habit is not new, George Washington continued his in his diary while Theodore Roosevelt was almost as well known for his interest in birds and animals as for his prowess as a President.

Only fingerprints are more characteristic than hobbies! With hobbies man leaves his true imprint on life for they reflect his tastes and tendencies. No one can choose a hobby for another person because the only ones worth having are those which spring spontaneously from strong natural interests. However, I do believe that many people would discover new interests if they would look the hobby field over.

Some hobbies are expensive while others are practically nothing except time and enthusiasm. Even if the hobby you choose costs in time and dollars and cents you can begin in a small way and work toward pleasurable goals ahead. In this way you create gradually, and every new piece of equipment you get or every article you buy gives you keen happiness. Slow development is the very essence of a hobby and is much more fun than a speeded-up pace.

IT IS DEADLY and deadening to leave the office or finish your work for the day only to find yourself at loose ends, with no special interests or keen enthusiasm for anything. Picture, in contrast, the man in fact you might lead in a double Vienna.

By WILLIAM E. MCKENNEY

It is nice to see a master play a good hand. Jeff Gluck of Miami, a member of the committee for the national championship tournament to be held Dec. 8 to 15 at Hollywood, Fla., played today's match and more set against it.

Gluck led the diamond from dummy, went up with the ace, and the queen of diamonds was his thirteenth trick.

THE MORAL of this hand, if there is one, is: Don't be too anxious to signal that you hold the missing high cards.

Gluck won the opening lead in a double Vienna.

Coffield Ironrite

MODEL 75 AS PICTURED

It's here! The Coffield Ironrite, for which you have waited nearly four years! See it! You'll like it here but you'll like it far better in your own home. The Ironrite not only serves a most useful purpose on Tuesday, but it's a modern table other days of the week. It's a time saver and a labor-saver. Be here at door-opening, Friday!

Only at EATON'S!

CABINET — Of baked enamel with porcelain enamel top. Serves as a table when ironer is not in use. Keeps ironer free from dust and dirt. Cabinet support automatically lowers to the floor when cover is swung back, bracing the ironer rigidly. Solid end panels.

SHOE — Heavy cast iron, holds the heat evenly, will not warp or scorch, will not scorch the clothes. Both ends fully open and unobstructed.

ROLL — Both ends wide open. Padded with special knitted cotton padding. Length 25 inches.

FORMING BOARD — Black plastic. Much cooler for the operator. A convenient support to guide and arrange the garments at natural height of operator's arms.

CONTROL — Fully automatic. Feather-touch knee control and EXCLUSIVE LAY WITH COFFIELD IRONRITE, the knee pressing control. This leaves both hands free at all times to arrange and guide the garments. Motor switch and heater switch.

LAP BOARD — Protects operator's hands from damp garments. Provides convenient shelf for folding clothes.

SAFETY — Safely pilot light showing red at all times when heat is on. Instant emergency release, for use when current is shut off accidentally.

PRESSURE — Constantly maintained; no springs to adjust.

HEAT — Evenly distributed and maintained due to special construction of shoe. Latest design of selective THERMOSTATIC HEAT CONTROL. Permits varying degrees of heat for different kinds of ironing.

SPACE — When in use, 18 in. x 30 in. x 45 in.
